

PICKY EATER

FOOD DISCOVERY

SMALL RESTAURANTS ARE INVISIBLE ONLINE

- Investing little in their online profiles despite nearly half of diners discovering new restaurants through social media
- Heavily dependent on reviews as the first customer attraction
- Struggling to compete with the marketing power of large chains and are in need of a more effective online presence

PICKY EATER

PICKY EATER

MARKET PROBLEM

Low Visibility

Independent restaurants are hard to discover unless they already have online momentum.

Creator-Biased Algorithms

Social platforms amplify creators, not restaurant venues.

Pay-to-Play Rankings

Search and delivery apps prioritise paid placements over quality.

Quality Goes Unseen

Great food does not translate into digital visibility.

OUR SOLUTION

- All-in-one platform that combines a map, social feed, personalised filters, and a chat system.
- Built for small-scale restaurants with fewer than 10 outlets so big chains do not bury independents
- Personalised discovery that allows users to find places with ease instead of jumping between TikTok and Google Maps

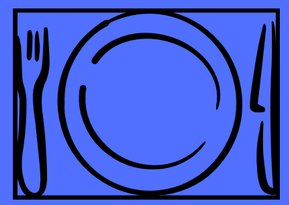

WHY NOW?

Social Media

Food documentation is increasing, and people actively find restaurants through social media.

01

Dining Out

Dining out is rising again, so more people are regularly searching for where to eat.

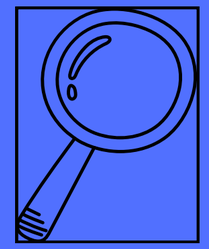

02

Independent Restaurants

Small-scale restaurants struggle to stand out online against the marketing power of big chains.

03

Gamified Dining

Gamifying dining turns the scroll-and-save way people discover food into an engaging game.

04

HOW WE BEAT THE COMPETITION

Feature	PICKY EATER
Social Feed	✅	✅	❌
Restaurant Specialisation	✅	❌	✅
Restaurant Chat	✅	✅	❌
Food-Tailored Algorithm	✅	❌	❌
Independent Focus	✅	✅	✅

Feature-by-Feature Comparison

PICKY EATER

OUR UNIQUE EDGE (USP)

Connecting "Hidden Gems" to niche audiences through social-first engagement.

Social-First Discovery

Replaces static search lists with a high-engagement, infinite-scroll visual feed and interactive map.

Hyper-Personalised Filters

Advanced discovery tailored specifically for niche dietary needs including vegan, halal, and gluten-free eaters.

Exclusive "Hidden Gems"

Only features restaurants with fewer than 10 locations to ensure authentic, local dining experiences.

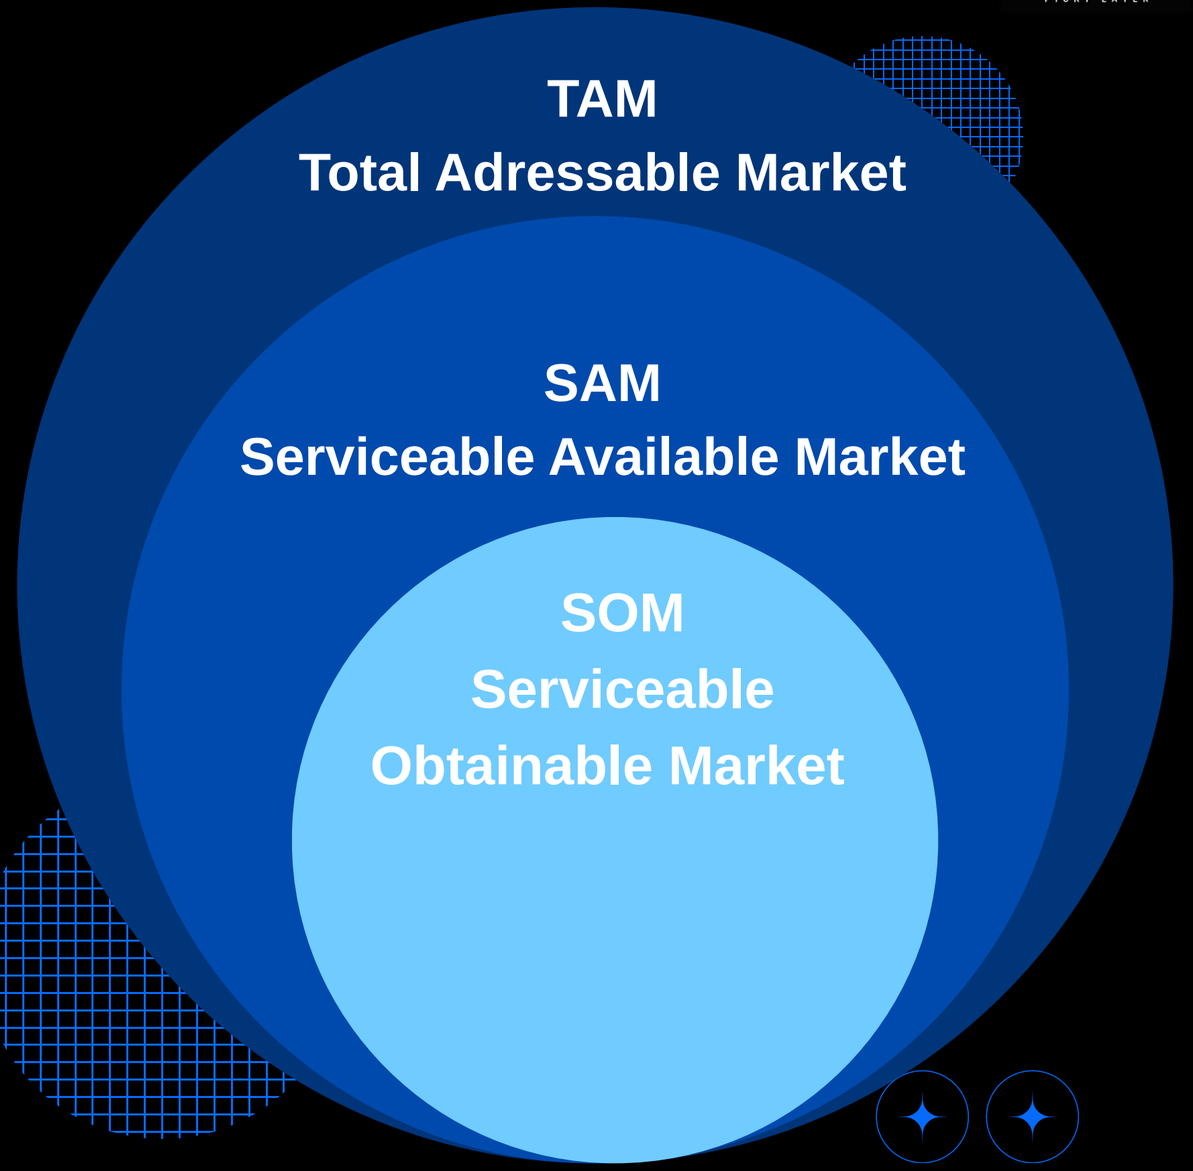

LOOKING AT OUR MARKET

(TAM) The global restaurant discovery market is estimated to reach £3.8 trillion by 2030.

(SAM) UK-based young adults and travellers with dietary restrictions who use discovery apps, representing a serviceable market value of £1.2 billion.

(SOM) 12% of the restaurants in North West England within the first 3 years.

Our initial beachhead market is independent restaurants and micro-chains

GO-TO MARKET PLAN

Build in public

We aim to openly document the process of building our startup, to foster trust, authenticity, and transparency. This approach will help us form a loyal community early on by attracting potential users who value honesty.

Partnerships

Influencers will help us reach younger demographics. Partnerships with student societies will provide direct engagement with our primary audience: university students and young professionals.

Guerilla Marketing

We will visit universities to host events and challenges to connect with students. Posters and QR codes placed in high-traffic areas such as cafés and gyms that will lead to interactive landing pages, offering sneak peeks into our app.

PICKY EATER

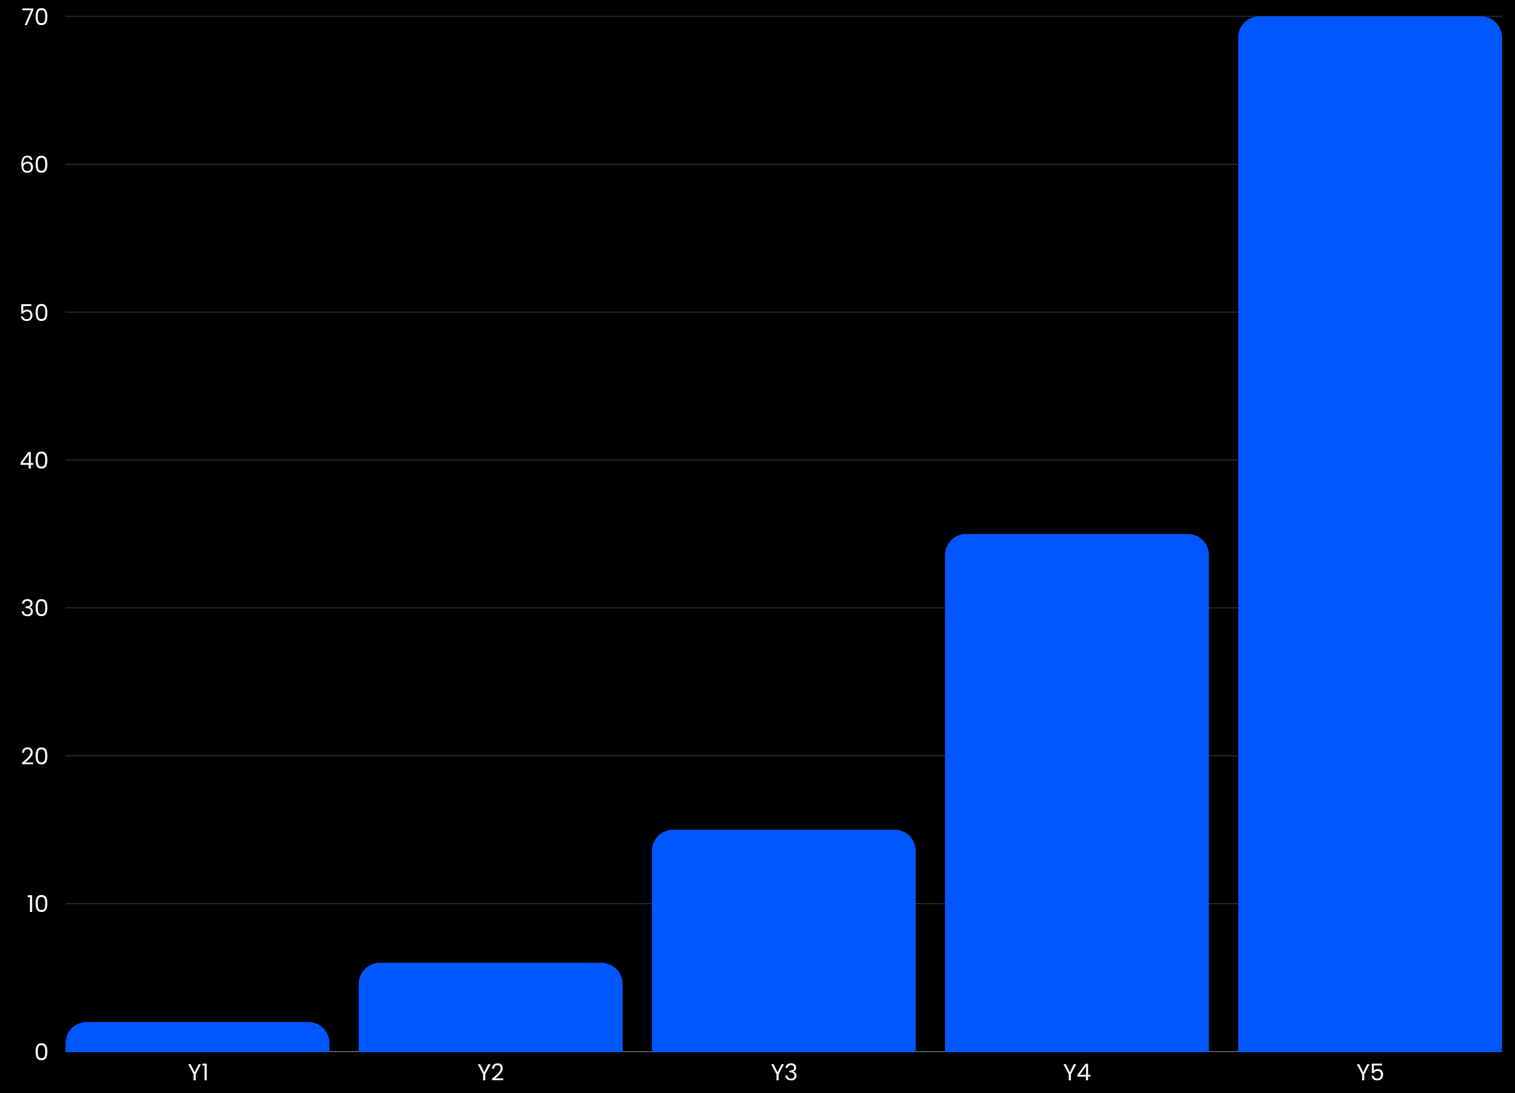

REVENUE MODEL

IN-APP ADVERTISING

- Our primary revenue stream is in-app advertising.
- Restaurants can pay for boosted posts or featured map placements (£50–£300/month).
- We look to explore other revenue streams as time progresses such as delivery.

PICKY EATER

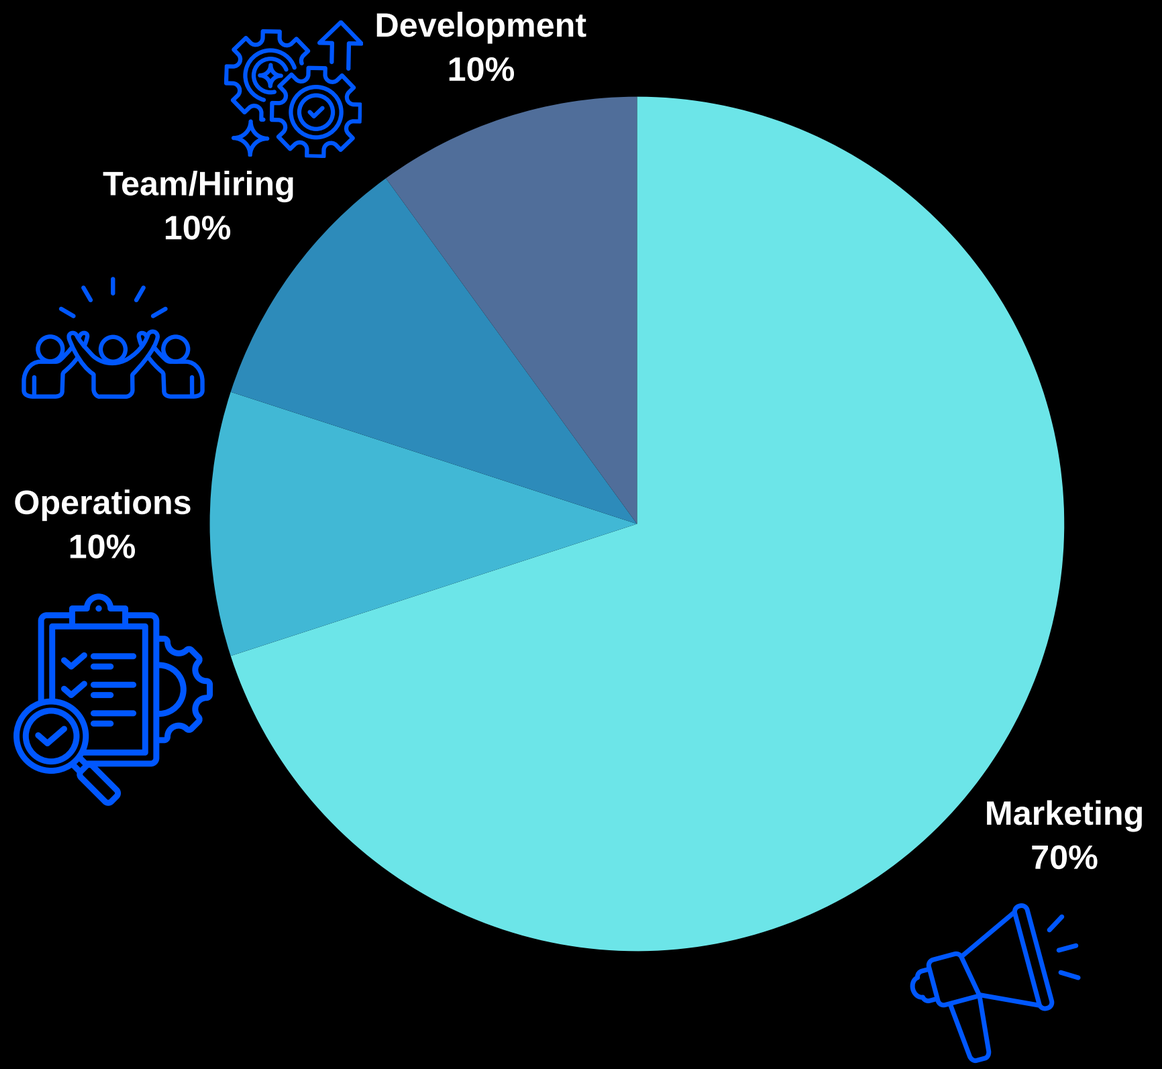

PROJECTED REVENUES TO REACH £10M by 2031

CAGR (2026–2029): 103.6%

USE OF FUNDS

We are seeking investment in order to facilate our strategic expansion

- £80k as part of a 18 month runway (SEIS/EIS)
- Minimum ticket size of £5k at a valuation cap of £500k
- Scaling the user base to 10,000 active members through targeted marketing
- Growing the annual revenue to the £1M milestone by expanding our partner network and platform features

OUR PEOPLE

PICKY EATER

Omar Elhefnawy

CTO

Hamed Adam

Project Director

Vali Hameed

CO-CEO

Anthony Zhou

CO-CEO